LEE CO. ROLLED UP GREAT VOTE FOR KANKAKEAN

Sterling And Brooks Are Also Given Fine Vote In County

Len Small, always a strong candidate in Lee county, swept all opponents ruthlessly to one side in the county in yesterday's Republican election, polling the grand total of 2530 votes in this county to add to his swelling state total. It was by far the biggest vote the Lee county Republicans ever gave him, being nearly a thousand greater than the vote for his nearest opponent, Omer N. Custer of Galesburg.

The story of the election in the county is told in the following totals, complete for the Republicans and with eight precincts missing on the Democratic ticket.

Unofficial reports of the congressional district, with but three precincts missing, gave the Jo Daviess county man a lead of over 600 votes over the incumbent.

Collins, Allen Win Legislative Battle At Polls

Missing Illinois Deputy Is Sought

Los Angeles, Apr. 13—(AP)—Police were searching today for Clarence Brown, Kenney 48-year-old Deputy Sheriff of Auburn, Ill., at the request of his wife, who said he disappeared from his home while en route to a bank to deposit $2000.

Mrs. Brown said she believed her husband was suffering from a mental ailment resulting from worry over financial reverses. Brown left Auburn driving a blue sedan.

Mrs. Brown said she found trace of him at Colorado Springs, where he apparently inquired about roads to southern California.

COMPLETENESS
To make my life complete, I need
The consummation of a deed
Of men
When my frail bones are dust again.

To make my death complete, I crave
The endless quiet of a grave
Made with a grid of silver bars
So I can look up at the stars.

In life I've had no time for these—
In death I'll have eternities.
—Elizabeth Basquill.

Century Mark Her Handicap

Sapulpa, Okla., April 13—(UP)—People who believe that a person 100-years-old can't do washing, kept Mrs. Lizzie Devers from making her own living, she confessed to County Commissioner George Willibee when she applied for charity. She makes a living gathering up rags and selling them.
"I would rather do washings," she said, "but people won't give me work. They think I am too old."

Mrs. Devers, who said she will be 101 years old her next birthday, insisted she could do as much work as a 25-year-old woman and had not her milk goat been sick and she down with "flu" would not have had to apply for aid.

She was married nine times. All her husbands are dead. She said her first husband was a veteran of the American Revolution and the next fought in the Civil War.

Modern girls grow old because they use too much rouge and lipstick, Mrs. Devers confided, but she said tobacco was different.
"Sure, I use tobacco, when I can get it," said she. "I smoke a pipe, chew and even dip snuff when I have the chance."

Miss Eleanor Ioder Hostess at Bridge

Dainty refreshments were served at a late hour.

Philharmonic Soc. To Sponsor Concert

The Philharmonic Society of Dixon, a group of the younger musicians of the city, for the promulgation of the best in music, will sponsor a concert on the evening of Thursday, April 21st, at 8 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran church. The artist for the evening is to be Tomford Harris in a piano recital.
Since his last return from Europe, demands for recitals by this young American has grown rapidly. He has played in many places large and small, giving programs of widely divergent types and the enthusiastic reception accorded him has been unmistakable.
Tomford Harris was arousing interest of musicians in his improvisations on the piano before he was five years old. Unlike many pianists whose gifts have been revealed in childhood, this boy found no royal road opened to the study of his instrument. It was thought that his phenomenal sense of pitch pointed to the violin and, in any event, the travels of the family made serious piano study impractical.
His first concert appearance was not permitted until he was eleven when, in San Diego, he performed a composition of his own with an orchestra.
At eighteen, he made his professional debut in Wigmore Hall, London, before a distinguished and critical audience, which he aroused to great enthusiasm. Eugene Goossens, the eminent composer and conductor, honored the occasion by composing two numbers for the program.
Press Comments
"The last number was played with such dynamic force and mastery that its finish brought the audience to its feet in a tumult of applause and set music lovers flocking stageward to demand encores."
—Chicago Daily News.
"Brilliant success has just welcomed the appearance of the young pianist, Tomford Harris, who, in a well chosen program, gave evidence of a vibrant musical sense, and profound feeling, together with technical gifts already of a very surprising nature."
—Paris Comedie.
"Exquisite poetical feeling."
—Paris Comedie.
"Sparkling virtuosity."
—Le Monde Musical, Paris.

Grand Ball Of Templars One Of Season's Events

The Knights Templar grand ball and card party which was held at Masonic Temple last evening, was another of the beautiful social affairs that have been held in this popular building. This annual affair becomes increasingly attractive each year and this year nearly 450 people attended. The patrol team of the White Shrine, under the leadership of Lloyd Lewis, began the entertainment with an exhibition drill which included a number of new formations. Their drill work is perfect and such excellent work can only be secured by patient supervision and constant, intensive practice. The audience applauded each of their special formations and they received much well merited praise for their part of the program.

The grand march, which is always a very colorful part of the program, because only the Sir Knights in full uniform with their ladies, in their beautiful party gowns, take part. In all similar, military formations, it is customary for the gentlemen to form an arch of steel with their swords, under which the ladies pass and this part of the program was carried out as in previous years.

The grand march was led by the Commander, Sir Knight Oliver M. Rogers, and his beautiful daughter, Margaret, with the officers, in their respective rank, next in order, followed by the Past Commanders and the Sir Knights who are members of the drill team and the drum and bugle corps.

Following the grand march, those of the guests who did not wish to dance retired to the parlors where they enjoyed a bridge party which was in charge of Mrs. Lloyd Lewis. The scores indicated that the players were quite evenly matched and they continued playing until nearly eleven-thirty. The first ladies' prize, a beautiful pewter coffee pot was awarded to Mrs. H. E. Marsellus, the second ladies' prize, a very pretty magazine rack went to Mrs. E. J. Swan and the ladies' consolation prize, a set of two decks of cards went to Mrs. Mary L. Powell. The first gentlemen's prize, a needle point foot stool was awarded M. E. Potter, the second gentlemen's prize a very pretty magazine rack went to E. S. Rosserans and the gentlemen's consolation prize to P. J. Shenefelt of Mount Morris, this proved to be a tallisman rose bush.

Throughout this season, the dancing parties have been attended by an increasing number of young people who get a great deal of pleasure out of these semi-formal affairs and a large proportion of the guests were of the younger set. Dixon is noted all over this part of the country for its pretty young ladies and when they attend a party attired in their beautiful party gowns of various colors, it makes these parties more and more attractive. The music brought forth so many favorable comments and so much applause from the delighted guests that the party was continued until 1 A. M.

During the evening, a radio reception of the election, the new and remarkably efficient instrument, which had been furnished by Earl Kennedy, was appreciated by many of the guests who wished to keep posted on the election returns. This party was one of the most delightful affairs of the season and the number of guests who came to Dixon to attend our social affairs is proof that they are becoming more and more popular. Each time, there are a number of inquiries as to when the next one will be held.

A CHANGE IN TAX PRINCIPLES.

The Senate's deliberations over the tax bill have raised anew the old, fundamental issue in any taxation measure: are those who have the most to pay the most, or is it better to let them off lightly on the theory that their increased property will trickle way down and do something for the ordinary citizens underneath.

For more than a decade the country has been committed to the second alternative.

Through recent years we have been assured, over and over again, that the welfare of all of us is best promoted by seeing to it that the very rich have a free hand.

Taxes on the possessors of great incomes have been whittled down, year after year, in line with this theory. The government has done all it could to leave them entirely alone, both in the conduct of their business enterprises and in their methods of handling the profits.

This, we were told, meant better times for all of us, automatically and inevitably.

As long as boom times lasted, nobody minded much. The rich got theirs and most of the rest of us got ours, proportionately, and everybody was happy.

The question up for decision now is whether that doctrine is still a valid one.

A very large section of the country, evidently, thinks that it isn't. Its belief found reflection in the crushing defeat which the House gave the sales tax proposal, and in the "soak the rich" provisions of the new revenue bill. Most Americans seem about ready to reverse the post-war system and call on the rich to carry a greater part of the load.

It may be that the ordinary citizen has decided that the proof of a pudding is in the eating of it, and that since ten solid years of coddling the rich have finally landed us just where we are now, a change in policy is advisable. And if he has—can you blame him very much?

MODIFYING THE BAUMES LAWS.

New York state's action in modifying the famous Baumes laws relating to habitual criminals seems to mark the beginning of a return to sanity on the part of legislators in connection with the problem of crime and punishment.

The original Baumes law provided for a life sentence for fourth offenders. The idea back of it—that a man who had been convicted of a felony four times had become such a hardened criminal that society ought to lock him up for keeps, without bothering about trying to reform him—had a certain amount of logic in it, but in practice the law worked out very badly.

Juries hesitated to convict when the habitual criminal provision was involved. Woeful cases of savage injustice came to light every so often. It became clear that the law was doing more harm than good.

Now New York's fourth offenders will be eligible to parole at the end of 15 years. The law is still severe, but its severity is tempered both with a degree of mercy and with common sense.

A MAN "STARK MAD."

The case of the Illinois convict who set fire to the prison chapel because he was "tired of being shut up" and "wanted to see the whole place burn up" is a tragic example of what long-continued imprisonment can do to a human soul.

This man has been in prison for 35 years. Prison officials describe him as "stark mad"—which seems rather obvious, since there was not the slightest chance that his act of incendiarism could have benefited him in any way.

That, apparently, is what happens to a man who is locked up for a lifetime. It gives one a dark, tragic picture of what goes on in the minds and hearts of the men whom society has had to keep under lock and key.

On the one hand we call for a return of prosperity. On the other we choke it off by further depleting buying power, by throwing additional persons out of work and making more misery. We ought to take another course here.—Senator Tasker L. Oddie, Nevada.

In spite of centuries of experience and the gradual control of disease after disease, a large proportion of our population still lives in the Dark Ages in so far as personal care is concerned.—Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior.

Take it from one who has trained thousands of them, who has lived and flown with them for 15 long years, the first class flying man is a professional.—Major General J. E. Fechet, United States Army, retired.

Until all nations lay down their arms, we must possess an air force that is ready to fly and fight when the first cloud of war appears on the horizon and is capable of expansion to meet any emergency.—F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war.

Continuous education of adults is the only answer that affords even a prospect of safety from the danger of intolerance which confronts us.—Newton D. Baker, ex-secretary of war.

The Orient Still Trouble Center

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA European Manager
LONDON—When Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson gets down to work at the Geneva disarmament conference, he will find three new problems confronting the delegates, all of which have developed new complications since the conference recessed for the Easter holidays.

First and most important of these is the situation in the Orient where Japan and China are still sitting on powder kegs.

Fighting in Manchuria was followed by a definite Japanese threat to withdraw from the League of Nations and this, naturally, will have a dampening effect on efforts to disarm.

The second disturbing element is the increase in military appropriations proposed by the French. Unless something definite is done at Geneva, France will embark on a program of military preparation unequalled there since the World War.

This has had a disquieting effect on England, Italy and other European nations.

Third, the French delegates themselves know that their plans must be subject to the outcome of the elections in France in May.

The second of these three is the most surprising in view of France's continuance protestations of eagerness to disarm.

The new French army budget calls for the expenditure of approximately $25,000,000 more than last year. This fact is hardly in line with the French proposal to turn armed forces over to the League of Nations and to make that body a police power for keeping peace in the world.

French naval appropriations also would include $70,000,000 for construction of new ships, chief of which is a new $25,000,000 battle cruiser, which would be one of the most efficient fighting vessels afloat.

Plans for construction of this battle giant are going forward as French delegates to the Geneva conference are still talking excitedly about giving all the battle-ships to the League of Nations.

French submarines, already numerous, are to be augmented under the new construction program by eight new and modern undersea boats.

The table above shows at a glance the proposals for disarmament made by the principal naval and military powers of the world at the conference in progress at Geneva. To get these differences ironed out will be the principal duties of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, right, who has gone to Geneva, and of Norman Davis, left, who has been at the conference since it began. Miscellaneous proposals not included in the table include that of Great Britain to reduce all armaments a minimum of 25 per cent and that of France to create a League of Nations police force to prevent war. France also advocates compulsory arbitration but the French stand is to some extent, dependent on the outcome of the national elections in May.

France also proposes to turn all big submarines over to the League of Nations.

England frankly views this situation with misgivings.

The British naval and military appropriations have been cut to the bone and Great Britain is apparently perfectly willing to consent to a further reduction in armaments.

But more and more British newspapers and statesmen are coming to the conclusion that France says one thing and means another, and that the only sort of disarmament for everybody but France.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.

It was not long until each bird flew out of sight. Then, Duncy heard a very funny rumbling sound. It frightened him not a little bit.

He knew it was thunder, right nearby. A storm was brewing in the sky. Then he looked down and saw that he was floating over the storm.

Thought he, "I am a lucky lad. I guess I really should be glad that I am not below the clouds that seem filled up with rain."

"Perhaps this trip will end all right. I hope I land before it is night. And, too, I also hope that what I hope is not in vain."

The bubble slowly rose and fell and Duncy got a sleepy spell. It was not long till he dozed off and had some crazy dreams.

In one dream he was falling fast and clouds and birds were whizzing past. Then he woke up and looked around, how strange this seems.

Way down on earth the others knew that there was naught that they could do. They'd watch the bubble disappear. "It is to bad," Scoutly said.

"There is no use running any more. We don't know where we are running for. I only wish we knew what's going on, high overhead."

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to catch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help around the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with indigestion? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

"If Duncy still is safe and very sound, by other folks he may be found. Then he will start to look for us. Well" simply have to wait."

Then Windy gave them all a scare by shouting, "Hey! Look way up there! An airplane is coming right this way at quite a speedy gait."

The plane kept coming. Oh, how fast! It swooped and dived until, at last, the Tinymites could see a man. Said one, "He waved his hand."

And then with one more swerve around, the plane came nearer to the ground. The Tinymites were very thrilled. They stood and watched it land.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

A disastrous new World War could very easily develop out of Japan's drive for empire in Shanghai. The danger, far from being past, will probably grow greater in the immediate future.

This is the conclusion reached by Sherwood Eddy, following an extensive trip through China and Japan and a series of interviews with leaders on both sides.

He presents his views in "The World's Danger Zone," a slim little book filled with a contagious pessimism.

Japan, he says, is driving China straight into Communism. Even to day large sections of China are under Communist control; as further Japanese aggression intensifies.

es the disgust of Chinese patriots with the vacillation and weakness of the Nanking government, Communist control is almost certain to be widely extended.

In addition, looming more clearly every week, there rises the horrid specter of an approaching war between Japan and Soviet Russia.

And Mr. Eddy is explicit about the utter chaos which a thoroughgoing Communist revolution in China would mean to the entire world.

Now is that all Japan's activities in China says Mr. Eddy, may well mean complete failure for the approaching disarmament conference; and that, in turn, could mean a complete swing to the extreme right or the extreme left in Germany—with either contingency plunging all of Europe into war!

Mr. Eddy's picture, then, is rather dark; probably, however, no darker than the facts justify. He is careful not to make it an anti-Japanese tract, and he gives a fair and sympathetic review of Japan's side of things.

HITLER, BEATEN IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT, FACES VITAL TEST OF POWER

By MILTON BRONNER

Berlin — Though beaten for German's highest office by President Paul von Hindenburg's amazing re-election plurality of nearly 6,000,000 votes, Adolf Hitler still has dreams of becoming a power in Germany in the Prussian Parliament elections of April 24.

Failure may wreck his great Fascist machine.

Prussia comprises approximately two-thirds of the area and population of Germany and the man who rules Prussia has a lot to say about what happens in the country. And Hitler, the former house painter who has become czar of Germany's Nazis, hopes to wrest this control from Otto A. Braun, Hindenburg's minister-president of Prussia.

The Prussian Landtag — or Parliament — is the Prussian legislative body and if Hitler can swing a few votes here and there, he may get control of it. If he fails in this, his plan for ruling Germany — by legal means, at least — will be over for the time being.

As an aftermath of his defeat for the presidency and in the light of recent raids on offices of the German Fascist organization, with a view of pressing charges of treason, the election of April 24 becomes a vital test of Hitler's power.

If the election of April 24 follows the line indicated in the national elections, Adolf Hitler's party will get 137 of the 458 seats in the Landtag. That number looks unimpressive until you remember that Hitler will have the backing of the Nationalists, who figure to get 37 seats and may be able to swing the Communists to his side.

The Communists figure to get 74 seats, and if they can be persuaded to join hands with Hitler against the common enemy — the various parties which supported Hindenburg — the former house-painter figures to have 248 votes to Braun's 210.

Of course Hitler will make a desperate attempt to get a clear majority of Nazis and Nationalists, but his best chance lies in the possibility of joining with the Communists, whom he hates.

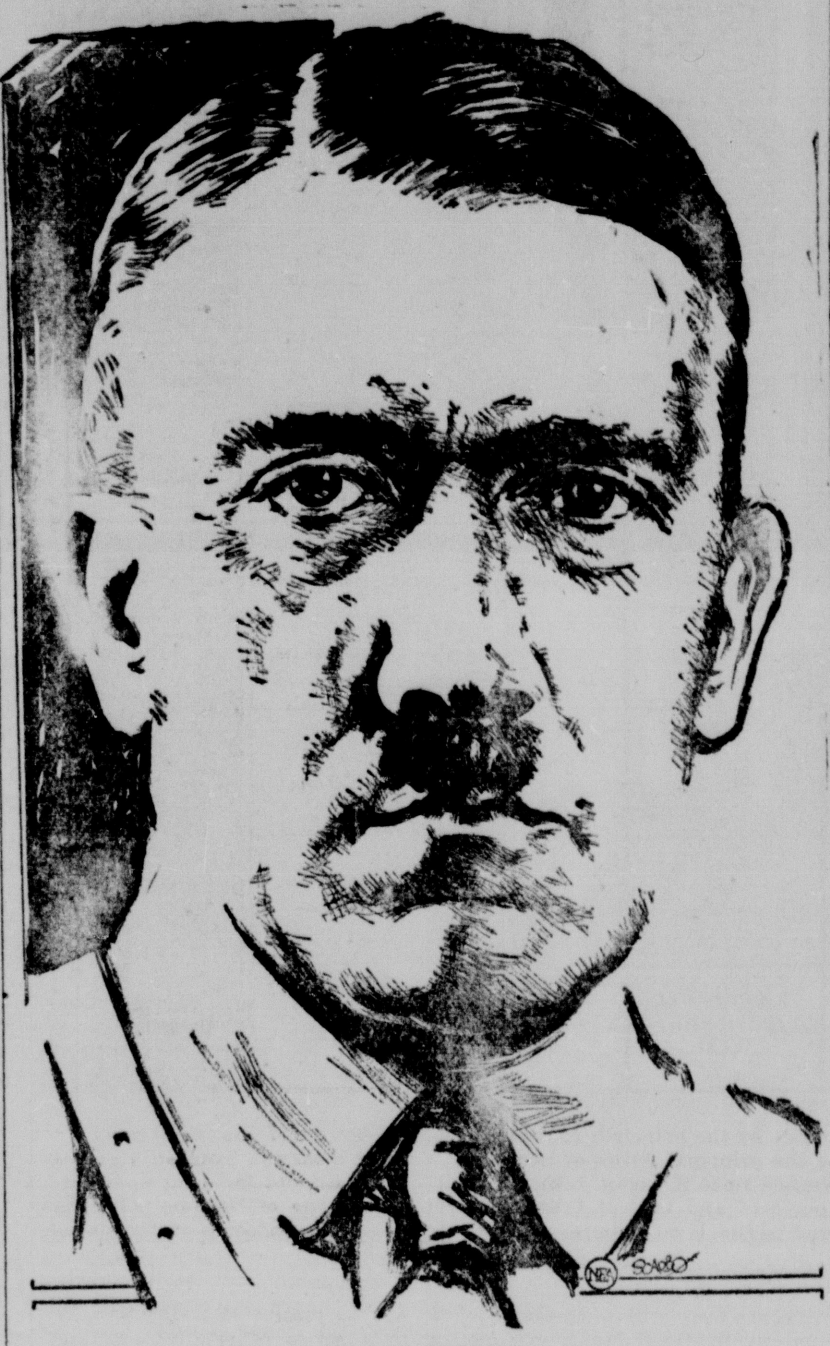

Opposed to Hitler is Otto A. Braun, termed the Red Czar by his political foes, much to his own amusement.

Braun, though almost unknown in the United States, is generally regarded as one of the shrewdest, cleverest and most courageous leaders the new Germany has developed.

As minister-president of the state of Prussia he has been one of the big guns back of the German republic since it was formed. He was one of von Hindenburg's staunchest supporters in the recent elections.

His career is almost as romantic as that of Fritz Ebert, the little saddle-maker, who became Germany's first president. There were no silver spoons about when Otto Braun was born. His parents were working people and his ancestors were peasants on the great estates of the East Prussian nobles.

After a common school education, Braun became a printer and a member of the Socialist party. One of his first and most bitter fights came when he had the unheard-of temerity to suggest unionization of the peasants in East Prussia. The junker landowners often set their dogs upon him as he came to speak to their workers.

But in 1913 Braun got his big chance to tell the junkers what he thought of them. He was elected to the Prussian Landtag. When the republic was founded after the war, he found himself one of its leaders.

Since 1920, with one short break, he has been minister-president of Prussia, and he has put over laws which have given the privileged junkers a pain. Then they called him the "Red Czar," but he laughed and didn't mind a bit.

The East Prussian junkers almost had a fit few years ago when they saw that Hindenburg and Otto Braun had become fast friends. But Hindenburg knew a strong man when he saw one. And when Hindenburg ran for re-election, Braun called on all patriotic workmen to vote for the aged war hero.

And Prussia responded by helping to elect the man who had saved Germany from financial and political chaos.

So now the stage is set for April 24. Germany after two national elections, within a few weeks, is going to have another of almost equal importance.

It will be a battle royal between the tried statesmen and the untied Nazi czar. If Hitler loses a third time, it will mean the beginning of the end for his movement. If he wins, he will come near his desire of being the boss of Germany.

with officers, that all officers are consequently becoming inefficient, that there are 12,000 officers to 118,000 enlisted men, whereas the National Defense Act established a proportion of but 16,000 officers to 2,000,000 men, that the promotion list is notoriously clogged by old, expensive officers whose continuance denies younger men a chance to rise.

Many officers come to him, Collins says, and complain that they have no work to do.

But Johnson says it's all a trick of the red, red radicals to destroy military training in schools and colleges, cripple the National Guard and ruin the Organized Reserves — "aimed at the government's power to perpetuate itself by the forces seeking to overthrow the government by force and violence." There are 1749 army instructors with civilian military groups.

CITES LIBERAL PROGRAM

To support his contentions, he broadcasts the liberal legislative program of the American Civil Liberties Union, which includes combating militarism, finding ways to prevent future wars, freeing Tom Mooney, passing anti-injunction bills, defending minority rights, unemployment insurance, opposition to armed forces in Latin America, Russian recognition and so on.

He stresses the fact that the Committee on Militarism in Education, the Methodist Federation for Social Service and other groups met with the Union in 1931 and cites the report of the Fish "Red" hunting committee which showed that the Union stood for unlimited free speech.

Johnson solemnly warns against the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, linking it with organizations opposing military training "which includes necessarily a long list of Communist, Socialist, Atheist and 'international' free speech."

Colonel Johnson fears that army officers will have their pay and allowances cut along with other federal employees, that 2000 officers will be retired from among the army's 12,000 or more and that there will be a 10 per cent cut in army appropriations. He has suddenly organized a "Citizens' National Safety Committee" to ward off that "catastrophe," as he calls it.

Congressman Ross Collins of the House Appropriations sub-committee in charge of the War Department appropriation says those officers ought to be retired for the sake of efficiency.

Washington—Congress has been almost buried by the agonized squawks of organized groups at proposals for taxation or federal economy, but none of the propagandists seem to be quite as steamed up as are the super-patriots of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps Association over rumors that certain cuts may be made in expenditures for the army.

The army and navy eat up 17 per cent of the government's disbursements, to say nothing of another 53 per cent that goes for veterans and war debts, and that expense was once considered safe from the economy axe. But lately one has heard proposals to cut there as elsewhere, which lead to a fearful shriek from Lieut.-Col. Orvel Johnson, executive secretary of the R. O. T. C. group.

CALLS ON "PATRIOTS"

Johnson has issued an "emergency message" to all "patriots," warning that Communists, pacifists, churchmen and other elements seeking the overthrow of the government will win a tremendous victory unless "patriotic Americans" will "stand shoulder to shoulder to defeat them."

Colonel Johnson fears that army officers will have their pay and allowances cut along with other federal employees, that 2000 officers will be retired from among the army's 12,000 or more and that there will be a 10 per cent cut in army appropriations. Baseball Gossip

By HERBERT W. BAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For these many years Babe Ruth has been doing the unexpected, clouting home runs or striking out in his own inimitable fashion, but never before has he so completely dominated the major-leagues "opening day" ceremonies.

There was excellent pitching by Ed Brandt of the Boston Braves, Sam Jones of the Chicago White Sox and Phil Rhee of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals as the national and American leagues opened the drive that leads to the 1932 pennants yesterday; there was a rousing ninth-inning rally by the re-built Cincinnati Reds and a striking demonstration of batting power by the long-suffering Phillies, but over and above all the facts was the Babe's sensational seasonal debut at Philadelphia.

The king-phi of the New York Yankees' devastating attack clouted two home runs and a single against his George Earnshaw and Jimmy Blanton of the Philadelphia Athletics and thus continued five runs to the common cause.

A cheering crowd of 13,000 saw little to cheer about as the Yankees with praise-worthy economy, made 12 hits good for as many runs and beat the A's, 12-6.

Ruth, who never before had hit two home runs in an opening day game, needed some assistance and got it from Sammy Byrd and Gehrig. Among them this trio accounted nine hits and accounted for 17 runs. Byrd matched Ruth's feat with two homers and a single; Gehrig co-champion with the Babe of last year's home-run hitters, drove one ball out of the ball park and kicked in with a triple and single as well.

The only other American League game the weather man permitted saw the Chicago White Sox pin a 2-2 beating on the St. Louis Browns. Sam Jones held the Browns to eight hits and won without trouble in back of a 13-hit assault by the Sox. Carey Selph, rookie third-sacker, dove in three runs with three doubles.

Over in the National League the champion Cardinals turned in an easy victory. Their two chief rivals, the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs were beaten.

Phil Rhee, who pitched the Cards to victory in the pennant-winning years of 1926-29-30-31, held the Pittsburgh Pirates to seven hits and won, 10-2. The Cardinals' men-handled Larry A. French for 10 hits and eight runs in six innings, with Sparky Adams and Ray Blades getting three hits apiece.

The Giants felt victim to the effective pitching of "Fidgety Phil" Collins and a terrific hitting drive by A. J. Phillips. But Shotton's men pounded Bill Walker out of the box with nine hits in the second inning and piled up a total of 17 hits for the game. Collins himself got four hits and Chuck Klein contributed three, including a triple.

The Cubs led Cincinnati 4-1 going into the last half of the ninth but Charley Root weakened and filled the bases with none out. Carey Selph came in to stop the attack, but Red Lucas, a pinch batsman, doubled to drive in two runs and Donlin later singled to score two more and win the duel, 5-4.

Brooklyn's revamped ball club looked good afield, but the Dodgers' hitters fouled up against the afield pitching of Ed Brandt and the Boston Braves won, 8-3. The Dodgers got only five hits off Ed. Brandt when they went to "Jersey Joe" Shotton.

Bad weather conditions cut the aggregate attendance for six games to about 117,000.

Yesterday's Stars—Clouted Babe Ruth, Yankees—Clouted two home runs against Athletics, accounting for five runs. Ed Brandt, Braves—Stopped Dodgers with five hits and won, 8-3.

Sam Jones and Carey Selph, White Sox—Former held Browns to eight scattered hits; latter drove in three runs with three doubles, as Sox won, 9-2.

Taylor Douthett, Reds—His single in ninth drove in tying and winning runs against Cubs.

Phil Collins, Phillies—Pitched effectively against Giants and collected four singles himself in a 13-5 victory.

Flint Rhem, Cardinals—Pitched his club to triumph over Pirates, allowing seven scattered hits.

Rockford Defeats Dixon Team Again

Their jinx rode with the Dixon club to Rockford last night, for they were beaten 9-0 to 8-1. Rockford again shot uniformly well, though not approaching their former score of 9-9. Dixon, however, just could not click. The team score was even lower than in the match with Lena, though the score was easier, 1-6. 5 shots in each of four positions. The one exception left to the boys at the end of the match was that while every man was low, and the team was low, there were no flinching finishes, no one lost control ably and the scores show that such men tried to win. There is no more discouraging thing for a team than for one man to let go completely and let everyone else down with him.

Two shooters particularly are to be commended for their last night's score. Neither Ray Long nor A. N. Porter have done much shooting this year, and in view of the mental hazards of this match, shot very well. Porter, especially deserves praise, for rifle shooting

MEMORIES OF MILLER—

Babe Ruth stood with bared head a few days ago beside a grave in Spring Grove cemetery in Cincinnati. A few of the other Yankees were there. They placed a wreath on the modest stone that bore the carved name of Miller Huggins.

Did Babe remember the day he reported to the Yankees from Boston? And the Miller sent him to play right field, with Ping Bodie in center? And how he, Babe Ruth, shoved Bodie over to right field and announced that he was going to play center himself?

Hug signaled to the Babe to move over to right. Babe's response was a gloved hand, waved in the well known old derisive gesture before his nose. And the Babe couldn't be moved, that day. But the climax of the battle between the Mighty Mite and the Mastodon of Maui came a short time later, in St. Louis, where Ruth again openly defied the Miller.

THE SLOWDOWN—White with anger, Miller Huggins walked up to where Ruth was dressing in the clubhouse. His words were quiet but hard. "You're out of the game, Ruth! And you are fined five thousand dollars!"

The Babe laughed, "Try and get it." Miller came closer. Under the Great Man's very nose he stood and hurled the words:

"I've got that uniform! You're suspended. Get out of here. And remember—that fine will stick as long as I am manager of the New York Yankees!"

RUTH REPENTANT—Ruth might have punched the Miller then. He did come very close to it as it was. His face was purple as he stormed away.

The fine stuck. And out of it grew a warm friendship between the Babe and the Miller. Ruth changed for the better after that day in St. Louis. He began saving his money—part of it anyway, and in this venture he was assisted materially by Huggins, who knew finances as well as he knew ball players.

Huggins somehow always managed to be a comparatively new game to him.

The five high scores on each team counted for record. They are:

Third Base Rookie Stole Whole Show

Chicago, April 13 (AP)—Carey Selph, who wanted to be just a country boy, thought the city was a pretty good place after all today. When the White Sox expressed their opinion as the last place team in the American League last fall to step in and draft the lonesome Texan, Selph calmly announced that he preferred to be just a country boy and stay away from the big cities.

He returned to his insurance business in Texas, but soon heard the call of baseball and joined the White Sox in training at Mineral Wells, Tex.

Yesterday, he made his debut at Comiskey park and stole the inaugural home show. All he did was to drive out three doubles, blast three runs home and score another himself as Sam Jones pitched the White Sox to a 9 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns, their first home inaugural victory since way back when.

"I'm glad I came," Selph said.

That's About Fur Enough!

Five Years Ago Today—In a fast, rough game, Ottawa Senators beat the Boston Bruins 3 to 1 in the fourth and final game of the Stanley Cup hockey series to win the trophy and the world championship.

Ten Years Ago Today—National League Umpires Klem and Sentelle chased 14 players from the Chicago Cubs' bench for protesting a decision in the first inning, but the Cubs beat the Reds 5-1, though they had only 11 players on the field.

Cincinnati, O., Apr. 13 (AP)—John A. Heydler, President of the National League today announced his intention of urging that opening baseball games of the season be advanced "for two weeks at least," to avoid the weather jinx so often interrupting opening schedules.

aged to win to his side men who opposed him. He was quiet and direct. If he had a difference with a ball player, he took him aside and spoke calmly. Men who fought his appointment as manager finally became his friends.

Even Colonel Huston, who registered bitterly when Ruppert insisted that Huggins and not Wilbert Robinson, should manage the Yankees, finally capitulated with little Miller. Huston was "set in his ways," however, and even though he admitted Huggins' superiority and great managerial qualities, he so resented Ruppert's immovable choice of him that finally he made the proposition to Colonel Jake, "buy or sell." Ruppert bought.

SOME BASEBALL COLOR—There are many stories about Huggins, enough stories colored brilliantly by the powerful New York Yankee team he built and ruled, to form a book that might be called "Babe's Golden Era."

In this picture of the little wizard, there ought to be something about Hug, perfectly aware of Huston's enmity, saying, "Aw, Cap's all right!" something about the time Babe and Lou watched him from his berth after the Yankees had knocked off the Cardinals the fourth straight game, and threatened to throw him from the rear platform of all "servant cars," something about the way old Ban Johnson called for a "place in the baseball world for M'ler," a paragraph about Miller pulling Bill Doherty out of the pitchers box because there had been a great deal of gambling on a certain ball game, and his calm assurance that Julius would lose control with the bases loaded in the deciding game of the 1927 series, a forced a wild pitch that sent the winning run across, something of his deathbed, with only an hour or so to go, Hug turning to his sister and asking for the score, his sister inventing a figure she thought would please him, and being very generously told by the old boy, "You are forgotten! Today happens to be a double-header. I want the scores of both games."

Danzig's Many Attractions

It is not an unusual thing in Europe to visit a city just to see a picture. Many have gone to Paris to see Mona Lisa, or to Dresden to see Raphael's Madonna, so a great number of tourists go to Danzig to see Memling's "Last Judgment" in the famous and huge Church of St. Mary's in that city. It is the one prize of the city and has had a history wholly apart from its artistic value. It was captured at sea in 1475 and during the Napoleonic wars the French captured it again, but it was returned in 1815, and today it is as much an honor to Bruges in Belgium, its first home, as to Italy, where it was first consigned for the deMedici.

NEIGHBORS ARE CALLED AGAINST ACCUSED SLAYERS

Honolulu, April 13 (AP)—Revering upon the eyes and ears of Mrs. Granville Fortescue's neighbors for the final phase of its case, the territory set out today a trial evidence against the society woman and three men on the Navy accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai.

Three of the eleven remaining prosecution witnesses were called to tell what they saw and heard at the Fortescue home January 8, the day Kahahawai was abducted and slain.

By a procession of witnesses, most of them police officers, the prosecution yesterday carried its story from the point where the body was found to the darkened home of the accused woman, where the killing allegedly took place.

Mrs. Fortescue sat through the session apparently unmoved, even when the blood-stained sheet that had shrouded Kahahawai's body were unfolded and waved before the jurors of widely varied racial origin. Occasionally she glanced at Clarence Darrow, leader of the defense, but most of the time she kept her gaze on the back of a chair immediately in front of her.

WILL G. ROSS, EDITOR OF THE FRANKFORD (INDIANA) TIMES, SAYS:

THAT advertising is simply business news. It creates in prospective customers the desire to buy.

It has made millionaires by creating markets for certain products. It has revived dead businesses and put them on the road to prosperity.

It has inspired the peoples of the world to attain a higher plain of bringing before them modern inventions, conveniences and labor saving devices.

It has inspired inventive geniuses to explore new fields. It will re-create confidence in banks.

It has been the main business exciter throughout the past decades and will continue to be throughout the years to come.

It will have an important part in eliminating the unemployment problem facing the nation and will prove to be an important factor in the government's reconstruction program.

Eliminate advertising and the world will go into bankruptcy! factories will close, railroads will cease to operate and chaos will reign.

There was a time when competition was the life of trade, but today advertising takes its place. There can be no trade worthwhile without advertising. A man with great ideas is helpless without advertising.

POET'S CORNER

"CONTENTMENT"
 The wind and rain beat heavily,
 Upon our cottage door, dear,
 But here beside our fire-place,
 We are cozy, warm and true, dear.

Times there were when all this seemed
 To be so far away, dear;
 But faith and love and courage,
 Have come to us repay, dear.

The years we've spent together,
 Next door to heaven to me;
 Tho' the wind and rain beat on,
 dear,

We can't be glum; Now can we?

—Chee Buzzard.

MOTHERS FIRST GRIEF

Last night something woke me,
 Last night when all was still,
 They opened the window so gently,
 There wisdest dreams to fill.

Alone in the crib, Pure as heaven's dewdrops when they fall,
 Golden ringlets hiding the fairest little brow, our little all,
 Lindbergh, Jr. just turning three,
 The little voice whispers, come daddy take me.

There's something gone she does not meet;

Lost that she may not find;
 True Spring smiles around her
 But joyless is her mind.

Dreams of the heart
 Comes like visions to cheer,
 But as soon to depart.

'Twas in the far moonlight-without delay.

From this little bed of white they folded him up,
 Softly on tip toe, stole away,
 Oh sweet Mary, the blessed
 Sweet Mary, mother of Christ
 Take her hand, your touch will suffice.

SCARLET FEVER
 In time past scarlet fever was a widely prevalent and severe disease, responsible for much illness and not a few deaths.

Then the disease became less common and appeared in less severe forms. This condition prevailed until very recently, when its prevalence increased.

Scarlet fever is now known to be caused by a germ belonging to the hemolytic, that is, blood-destroying streptococcus group, spread principally through discharges from the nose and throat.

In very young children scarlet fever is most serious. Half of the cases occur in children from three to seven years of age, and 74 per cent of all deaths from scarlet fever occur in children under 10.

By the Dick test it is now possible to determine whether a child is susceptible to scarlet fever.

Doctor Dick, to whom we owe much of our recent knowledge of the cause of scarlet fever, recommends active immunization against the disease, but this practice is not as widespread as immunization against diphtheria.

On the other hand, the use of scarlet fever antitoxin is now an accepted treatment. This antitoxin, developed by Dr. Dochez, has proved itself effective.

The child sick with scarlet fever needs careful medical attention, for though the disease itself may not threaten life, its serious after-effects and late complications include diseases of the ear and of the kidneys.

The scarlet fever patient should be kept isolated in a room well ventilated and with as much light as possible.

Daily sponging with soap and water will keep the patient comfortable and will help reduce fever. Children recovering from scarlet fever need a proper convalescent period. They should also be guarded against subsequent infections, particularly of the respiratory

'Raffles' Who Posed as Girl Trapped by Mexican Police

Coy "Dancer" Who Fooled Detectives During 105 Bold Robberies Caught and Unmasked by Chance.

Roberto Hernandez Alexander, who staged 105 robberies, is shown above in male garb and also as he appeared while posing as a flirtatious dancer strolling the streets of Mexico City. Police picked him up by chance at last, then posed for the movies when they discovered his identity making him Exhibit A of a picture which was sharply criticized in Mexico.

By NEA Service—
 Mexico City — The gay, good-looking young "Raffles," who has bewildered Mexican police for several years and twice has figured in sensational escapes has been captured again.

And as an aftermath of his arrest, the Mexican press is bitingly criticizing the mayor and Conuhilla, who were so tickled when they discovered the identity of their prisoner that they made him pose with them for a Mexican news reel.

Mexico's "Raffles," who perpetrated 105 robberies during a sensational one-man crime wave, is Roberto Hernandez Alexander.

A polished trickster, he spent much of the time dressed as a dancing girl. His latest escapade was to carry a funeral bouquet to the home of a wealthy man. In his female attire, Alexander presented the bouquet to the widow, spent some time weeping with her and then looted the house while the funeral was going on.

He had been captured twice before. The first time he begged police to take him home for a moment.

While they waited in front, he changed to his dancer's costume and escaped through the rear.

Recently he was picked up in Mexico City and sentenced to the Carcel de Belem, a great, grim stone building in the heart of the city, that was considered escape proof. Within a few weeks he made his getaway.

Alexander's specialty was robbing the homes of American residents. Often he posed as an American. Being a great mimic he was able to speak Mexican with a "gringo" accent. He would convince Mexican maids that he was a friend of the owner, gain admittance and pilage the rooms.

He was a skilful dancer and sometimes entertained in cabarets. For a time he was on the stage. Torreon police chanced to pick him up on suspicion. But at headquarters he was identified. Then they posed before the movie camera, to show him off. The Mexican newspaper, Universal printed the news under the heading:

"The Limit."

On the other hand, the use of scarlet fever antitoxin is now an accepted treatment. This antitoxin, developed by Dr. Dochez, has proved itself effective.

The child sick with scarlet fever needs careful medical attention, for though the disease itself may not threaten life, its serious after-effects and late complications include diseases of the ear and of the kidneys.

FARES LOWEST IN HISTORY

New York — Airplane fares, are now the lowest in their history. They are approximately one-half of what they were three years ago.

In 1929 it cost $300 to ride in a mail plane between San Francisco and New York. Today the fare in eleven passenger tri-motored planes with free meals aloft on a 28-hour coast-to-coast schedule is $160. With the reduction in fares speed of flight has been increased and added comforts offered.

A bottle of water, standing outside a California home, focused the sun's rays with such intensity on the wall of the house that the wood was ignited.

When winter comes, the female polar bear turns away from the sea-coast and digs a den in the deep snowbanks. At the bottom of the den she curls up and goes to sleep, and soon the snow drift over her head and seals her in; not airtight, however, for a tiny hole remains open to admit fresh air. But this air hole often brings disaster to the bear. Dogs catch the scent through it and it is easy for the hunter to send a spear into the helpless animal. Should all go well, however, cubs are born while the mother is thus confined, and when spring comes they are well developed and able to follow the mother back to the coast.

The American Legion department of Illinois is forging ahead in the national membership race along the Oregon Trail, having passed the 75 per cent of its 1932 quota which is the starting point (Independence, Mo.) and progressing toward Portland, Ore., or 100 per cent. Each advance in percentage of quota attained sends the covered wagon and ox team of this state that much further along the trail. Its percentage in the March 18 tabulation at National Headquarters is 76.72.

It truly is a race for gold, as in the days of old, because there are three sets of cash prizes to be awarded to the winners.

The departments having a 1931 membership of 35,000 to 36,000 have a chance for a first prize of $75. To win it must be the first of its class to reach Portland, or 100 per cent of its 1932 membership quota. The second department to arrive will be awarded $50.

Similar cash prizes will be awarded to departments having a 1931 membership of from 10,000 to 35,000; and then similar cash prizes to the class of departments having 1931 membership under 10,000.

The American Legion Auxiliary also is taking part in the race, and with the national organization of the Legion has a stake of $100, the Legion agreeing it must arrive at least a month ahead of the Auxiliary with at least 10 per cent in excess of percentage of quota as compared with the Auxiliary percentage.

Asphalt "Surf Boards" Give Latest Thrill

Riding the rail to the tune of the roar of a motorcycle is the latest sport of the adventurous lads around Portland Ore. Instead of surf boards, the boys use planks with the motorcycle as motive power and not the motorboat. A sandy road also does better than the sea's waves. Terreplaning, they call it without fear of broken legs or necks.

"Get this right, Casey 103,500 Miles"

An Interview by ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

CARROL EDGREN, insurance man of St. Paul, stood beside his Pontiac parked in front of his St. Paul home, to add 40,500 and 63,000 and note that they totaled 103,500.

"That's not the census of the Twin Cities," he said as he displayed the result to the inquiring reporter. "It's my mileage on Iso-Vis Motor Oil. . . And I'll bet the cars in last year's road tests never came anywhere near that figure."

"It's all Iso-Vis mileage?" demanded the reporter.

Mr. Edgren nodded.

"All of it," he stated with some emphasis. "The 40,500 miles is on the speedometer of the Pontiac right here. The other 63,000 was the total on my other Pontiac when I turned it in. I figure I've covered the entire 103,500 miles in a little more than four years.

"A car to me isn't just a sort of perambulator that you use to give the kiddies the air. It's nothing but transportation. And I make it work.

"I started to use Iso-Vis the first day it was put on the market in St. Paul. My friend at the filling station gave me a sales talk on it and I took it for what it was worth. Then my repair bills began to give me a sales talk and I've stuck to it ever since. You can quote me on that if you want to. And get the total right—103,500 miles."

Mr. Edgren's 103,500 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

We've been around. We know exactly what all cars have to offer. What all cars can do. We know there isn't anything on wheels that even approaches a Chrysler in what it has, what it does, what it is worth.

With patented Floating Power engine mountings—with many other highly important engineering developments—

Chrysler has created an entirely different kind of performance.

And the driving—it's really wonderful. It's the way these Chryslers are engineered. It's what they have that other cars don't have. That makes the big difference. Drive a mile in a Chrysler and you won't spend a minute thinking of any other choice.
